

Thy Will
Be Done

Wednesday Week 5
March 29, 2017

Discuss one or more of the following with a friend or family member.

Have you ever been afraid of the dark? Have you ever enjoyed the dark? Share a good and bad memory about the dark.

Are you more open or more closed to new people or new perspectives? How quick are you to admit you are wrong? Is this a strength of yours, or a weakness, or both?

What's the most important thing you have ever changed your mind about? How did that happen? What was the result?

Talk about one or more of the following with someone who can point you back to Jesus and His love for you.

We often experience obedience as something we do. Obedience is also something that God shapes in us, or gives to us as a gift. How would your attitude or actions change if you thought of your obedience as dependent on Jesus and a gift from Him?

What do you see Jesus doing in you right now that you don't quite understand?

When you don't understand or don't know what to do next, which promises from Jesus are most helpful to you? Who speaks those promises into your life when you need to hear them?

"And for three days [Saul] was without sight, and neither ate nor drank." Acts 9:9

Lord Jesus Christ, do not leave me to my own understanding. Let me now enter into that holy darkness with Saul, where my assumptions about what makes me right or good or religious can come under Your scrutiny. Show me where my vision is at odds with Yours. Cause the scales to fall from my eyes, that I may emerge from the dark strengthened in my witness and utterly dependent on Your grace. Conform my mind and will to Yours. Amen.
